

Coronavirus: Questions & Answers

As the coronavirus (COVID-19) health crisis continues to evolve, we have put together a list of answers to frequently asked questions to assist you. Foresters Financial™ remains fully operational and is here to help you. We will continue to closely monitor the situation and will update this document as required.

Will Foresters underwrite someone with COVID-19?

Someone who has tested positive for COVID-19 regardless of age will be postponed for 90 days. After 90 days, we will consider a new application and upon confirmation of a negative test and no further symptoms, will consider coverage. Anyone who is scheduled to be tested, we ask that they wait until those test results are known. If testing is negative, we will consider right away; if positive we will postpone for 90 days.

Anyone who has travelled internationally within the past 30 days, including air or cruise ship travel will be considered but may be postponed depending on their arrival date back in their home country.

Please contact Doug Parrott (dparrott@foresters.com) or your underwriter if you have any applicant specific questions.

Will Foresters cover a death claim due to COVID-19?

- Deaths due to COVID-19 will not change what is covered or how we adjudicate a death claim. However, obtaining certain claim requirements may be delayed at this time. Foresters Claim team is working diligently to secure the necessary requirements needed to resolve each claim and will remain in consistent communication with claimants to advise of any ongoing delays.

Will Foresters consider suspending receiving applications due to the high level of deaths that may result due to the coronavirus?

Not at this time. We are currently accepting applications as we have in the past. We will keep you informed should anything change.

Will Foresters be 100% operational during this pandemic?

Yes, at this moment we have a fully developed pandemic plan that we have executed across the organization making us fully operational during this time. We will keep you informed should anything change.
